

Hindu Religion: An Archeological View

The current version of Hindu history was written by European scholars who were ignorant of Hindu history, geology, geography, and culture. What is portrayed as the Hindu religion had nothing to do with Hindus (DNA F) who lived in Peninsular India for 60,000 years in peace and tranquility. Hindus never had a god or religion. They were a logic-based culture. Hindu logic was based on verifiable facts. It was about the ability to separate facts from fiction. It is now called the logic of hypothesis testing. It is the exact opposite of Aristotle's logic. It was incomprehensible to Europeans.

In the Hindu logic nothing is sacred. All statements are subject to logical scrutiny. An empirically validated statement is called Brahman, the Truth (Satyam). Statements that cannot be empirically validated are classified as non-verifiable and nonsensical, in other words, plain rubbish. Hindu logic is the exact opposite of religion. The "Hindu religion" is a contradiction in terms. Religion accepts non-verifiable and nonsensical statements by faith as of divine origin. It is European culture.

Idolatry, the worship of gods in a temple, was invented by the Greeks around 350 BCE in Egypt to rob local people. It was a novel way to rob locals without the expense of a standing army. Robbing people in the name of gods, the temple business spread like wildfire and evolved into a growth industry. Temple business is now called religion.

In India, before the Greeks, there was no archeological evidence of temples, gods, Sanskrit, or Brahmins. South Bactria is called Avesta. Around 4,000 years ago, some Central Europeans (R1a1) moved to Avesta. Brahmins (Z93) were a subgroup (R1a1-a1h) of Avestans. Brahmins were con artists. They invented fictional gods in the human form, Shiva, Vishnu, and Indra, to rob people. They invented fictional rituals called Yajna to market the fictional gods as miracle makers that can cure any ailment for a price. Brahmins claimed to have acquired supernatural powers through meditation (tapas) to command gods to perform miracles on demand by performing Yajna rituals. A compilation of Yajna was called the Vedas. The Vedas were composed in Avestan to rob Avestans. Brahmin gods were snake oil. They were not temple gods.

Avestans realized that Brahmins were robbing them with snake oil. The Vedas, Yajna, and Brahmins were forbidden in Avesta. The unethical and immoral Brahmins were kicked out of Avesta to Kashmir. They were refugees living only in Kashmir.

The Greeks in Kashmir discovered the delusional, unethical, and immoral Avestan Brahmin refugees and employed them to invent fictional stories of their fictional gods housed in temples to rob Hindus. They invented a synthetic language called Sanskrit with artificial rules of syntax and grammar as a mixture of only the Grandhika dialect of Hindus and the Avestan dialect of Avesta. All the forbidden Brahmin literature of Avesta was resurrected in Sanskrit as the sacred text of the Hindu religion.

The British scholars who were ignorant of Hindu history, geology, and culture popularized the Sanskrit literature invented by the Greeks and their Brahmin stooges as the Hindu religion.

All Sanskrit literature was plain rubbish, a compilation of non-verifiable and nonsensical statements, the exact opposite of Hindu logic. It was reduced to ashes when tossed in the fire of Hindu logic of hypothesis testing. Hindu literature was composed in Grandhika, not Sanskrit. Using scientific tools, we separated Sanskrit (Avestan + Grandhika) into Avestan and Grandhika. The Grandhika portion was pure Hindu logic; the Avestan portion was plain rubbish.

What is currently known as the Hindu religion is the snake oil culture of the forbidden Avestan Brahmins transcribed from Avestan to Sanskrit (Avestan + Grandhika).

The recent Greek-invented Sanskrit was actively promoted as the language of gods to deliberately destroy the Hindu history of Peninsular India of 60,000 years.

The recent Greek-financed, forbidden Avestan Brahmin culture composed in Sanskrit by the unethical and immoral Brahmin refugees in Kashmir was actively promoted by the ignorant historians as the Hindu religion. Religion was a European invention to rob people in the name of gods.
