

The Agni People, an Archeological View
by Potluri Rao In Seattle ©2018 (CC BY 4.0)

Originally, the word Agni (Fire) referred to a system of logic, called Fire Logic, also known as “Infer Fire from Smoke:” Where there is Smoke there must be Fire. The Agni (Fire Logic) was invented in Syria. The people who believed in the Fire Logic were known as the Agni. The Agni were a subgroup of Syrians with their own distinct culture. The Agni people migrated east to India in search of a reliable source of perennial rainwater. They established residence at the Mt. Trikuta of the Vindhya, along the Ken river, to the west of the Chitrakuta hills.

Idolatry was a Greek invention to rob people. The Greeks who occupied India, after Alexander, deliberately misinterpreted Agni (Fire) as a temple god of worship. They employed the delusional Kashmir Brahmin to deliberately vandalize all the Agni literature to worship manuals of a fictional God Agni with supernatural powers.

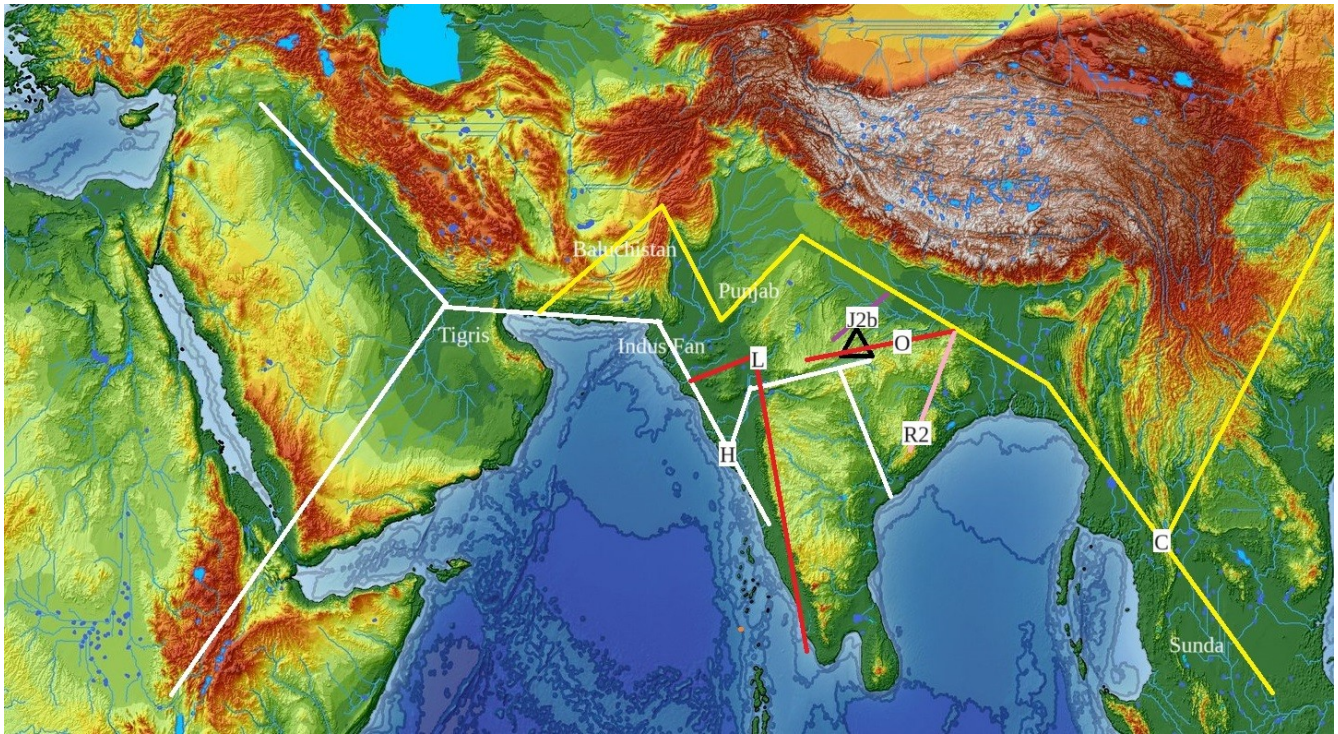

The original Rig Veda was a treatise on the Agni (Fire Logic), nothing to do with gods. The extant Rig Veda is rubbish, invented in Kashmir, by the delusional Brahmin, financed by the Greeks, to deliberately destroy the Agni culture based on Fire Logic.

What follows is an analysis of archeological evidence to trace the history of the Agni people.

Humans originated in Africa 200 thousand years ago. Sixty thousand years ago, some of them voluntarily migrated out of Africa to reach India, in search of dependable perennial rainwater. At that time, much of the world was covered with glaciers, and the seawater was much lower than the current levels. It was a different climate and landscape. The current Red Sea was a giant freshwater lake, the current Persian Gulf was the Tigris river, and the West Coast of India extended over 100 miles into the then Arabian Sea, called the Indus Fan.

People who share the same DNA are called a Haplogroup. The people who left Africa sixty thousand years ago were the F group.

The F group reached the now submerged Tigris sixty thousand years ago. At Tigris, the F was split into many subgroups. The J2 went to Syria, the H went to the Narmada river delta near Mumbai (Bombay), and some went to Baluchistan (Iran). In Baluchistan they discovered a mountain pass that let them move to a fertile valley, now the Thar desert.

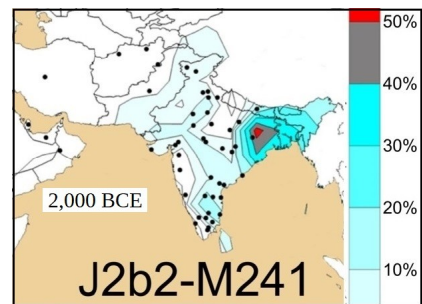

The above map is a computer simulation of the landscape of sixty thousand years ago.

Twenty thousand years ago, the glaciers started to melt, and the Tigris and Indus Fan were submerged. People were forced to relocate. At that time, there was a giant catch basin surrounding the Mt. Trikuta of the Vindhya with inexhaustible supply of rainwater to feed many rivers. It was the only source of dependable rainwater on the entire subcontinent. The F were forced to relocate to the Trikuta.

The J2b (Agni) were a subgroup of the J2 who lived in Tigris. They moved to the west side of the Trikuta, along the yellow line.

Around 2,200 BCE there was a global drought that lasted for almost two hundred years. The Trikuta basin dried out. The F at the Trikuta were forced to move to the east side of the Satpura Range with rainwater. They fused into a new form of civilization known as the Hindu. The density map shows the new location of the Agni (J2b) after the drought.

The Hindu (F) established a University along the Ghaghara river, where the four tributaries met, to teach logic. The original Rig Veda and Bhagavad Gita were textbooks on logic at the University, composed by the Agni (J2b).

The Hindu (F) that lived at the Trikuta for tens of thousands of years were logic-based cultures; they never had the concepts of War or God. The Greeks paid the delusional Brahmin in Kashmir to rewrite all the logic-based Hindu literature as worship manuals of fictional warmongering gods with supernatural powers. They actively promoted the recent Greek financed Brahmin rubbish as the ancient sacred texts of the Hindu. Hindu were logic-based; they never had any sacred texts. They had only logic textbooks: nothing was sacred, all knowledge was subject to logical scrutiny.

Sun rituals were originally developed by the Syria civilization (J2), over thousands of years, to keep track of seasons. The Sun rituals, called the Direct Knowledge, were based on sensory Perception only.

Agni rituals were a logical extension of Sun rituals. They invented the concept of Inference (Infer Fire from Smoke), a system of logical deduction. The Agni rituals were the Indirect Knowledge, based on logical Inference.

The Hindu invented a new system of logic. They realized that knowledge was both subjective and objective. Subjective knowledge changed from person to person. It reflected bias and prejudices. Objective knowledge must be independent of bias and prejudices; all people, always, must reach the same conclusion. They developed a system of reasoning to eliminate subjective knowledge. If a Proposition (Hypothesis, Adhikarana) were rejected with verifiable facts, then it was Objective Knowledge. It would produce the same predictable outcome every time. An empirically rejected hypothesis was called Sabda, the Objective Knowledge.

Sabda was the equivalent of a present-day controlled experiment, that can be repeated with the same predictable outcome.

The original Rig Veda was a compilation of Objective Knowledge (Sabda). It was pure logic. It was invented at the Vindhyas, after 2,000 BCE, as a treatise on Objective Knowledge. The extant Rig Veda is Greek rubbish, devoid of logic and reason. It was deliberately vandalized to promote idolatry.

A new system of logic called Sankhya, based on Perception (Direct), Inference (Indirect), and Sabda (Objective) was invented. The original Bhagavad Gita, was an exposition of the Sankhya system. It was a textbook on logic at the Hindu University, written by professor Vasudeva Krishna. The extant Gita is Greek rubbish, devoid of logic and reason. It was deliberately vandalized to promote idolatry.

It was the Greeks that destroyed the Hindu civilization with idolatry. Kashmir Brahmin were the Greek mouthpieces. They never had any intellect or logic. They were delusional Persians. They were fiction writers for hire on the Greek payroll. In India, before the Greeks, there was no archeological evidence of Brahmin, Gods, Temples, or Idolatry. The recent Greek financed rubbish was falsely attributed to antiquity, and was actively promoted as the sacred texts of the Hindu.

Using scientific tools, we were able to excavate bits and pieces of the original textbooks on logic at the University. The excavated material has a different story to tell. What we have been able to excavate so far is the tip of the iceberg. It is a glimpse of the lost Hindu cultures, that were deliberately and totally destroyed by the Greeks.

The Agni (J2b) were a subgroup of the Syria (J2) civilization. They invented the Agni (Fire Logic, Infer Fire from Smoke). They were professors of the Hindu University. They composed the original Rig Veda and Bhagavad Gita as textbooks on logic at the University.

The Hindu (F) never had any sacred books. All knowledge was subject to logical scrutiny. They lived in peace and prosperity for sixty thousand years. They never had a war or god. They were democratic republics with open borders. They were compassionate and respected other peoples' rights and property. They were an advanced logic-based civilization before they voluntarily left Africa.

The Hindu cultures that existed in India for sixty thousand years were deliberately and totally destroyed by the Greeks who introduced idolatry to India. Idolatry was a Greek invention. The DNA samples have a fascinating story to tell.

Reading material

Home